

PLENTY

The Travel
Issue

THE WORLD IN GREEN
JUNE / JULY 2008

ROAD TRIPPIN' USA
88 Places to Eat,
Sleep & Explore p.82

LENNY KRAVITZ
"Turn the Damn
Light Off" p.45

SUMMER FUN
Gifts for Dad
Beach Gear
Safer Sunscreens

THE NEW ECONOMY
Why Carbon is the Next Gold p.86

THE HEAT IS ON Global Warming
and the Future of Wine p.48

BEHIND THE WHEEL
How Intelligent is the Smart Car? p.93

10 Life Changing Adventures

Inside's Blue Laguna postcardal anniversary

MAKING WAVES

Hit the beach in eco-friendly style

Tilley Endurables' TH4 Hemp Hat staves off sunburn with a laid-back-adventurer feel. $79, tilley.com

Cover sun-kissed skin with Omala's bamboo, hoodie dress—it sports a sleeve pocket designed to hold your iPod. $90, omala.com

Amy Sacks Masa Mahogany sunglasses are made from bamboo and they're as sustainable as they are chic. $175, amysacks.com

Legendary surf photographer Aaron Chang designed this reversible, recycled polyester bikini, allowing you to rock two hot looks for the price of one. Top, $54, bottom, $45, aaronchang.com

El Naturalista's Ikebana sandal has leather uppers tanned with vegetable extracts and ground tree bark. $125, elnaturalista.com

The ultimate eye-candy tote, Nahui Ollin's organic canvas Artesenal Quintana is hand-embroidered with yarn colored with natural dyes. $229, nahuioillin.com

Laze in the sun on this leopard-print towel by Rogan for Target, made entirely from organic cotton. $30, target.com

Stroll the boardwalk in El Naturalista's men's Arrecife sandal—hand-stitched with a recycled rubber sole. $150, elnaturalista.com

Think polar bear cool in this US-made, organic cotton T-shirt from Darwin Design Clothing. $22, darwindesignclothing.com

Hang ten in Patagonia's Minimalist II Board Shorts, made from recycled polyester with a durable, water-repellent finish. $55, patagonia.com